Evidence-Based Practice in Critical Care

Upgrading the American Association of Critical-Care Nurses’ Evidence-Leveling Hierarchy

Critical Care Research

Strategies for Overcoming Site and Recruitment Challenges in Research Studies Based in Intensive Care Units

Linda Chlan, Jill Guttormson, Mary Fran Tracy, and Karin Lindstrom Bremer

Surrogate Consent for Genomics Research in Intensive Care

Ann K. Shelton, Anne F. Fish, J. Perren Cobb, Jean A. Bachman, Ruth L. Jenkins, Victor Battistich, and Bradley D. Freeman

Pulmonary Critical Care

Chlorhexidine, Toothbrushing, and Preventing Ventilator-Associated Pneumonia in Critically Ill Adults

Cindy L. Munro, Mary Jo Grap, Deborah J. Jones, Donna K. McClish, and Curtis N. Sessler

On the Cover

“Untitled”
Arron Sturgeon
24” x 12”
Oil encaustic on panel

To view other works by Arron Sturgeon, visit the online gallery, www.williamturnergallery.com

Coming in November …

Hatler and colleagues examine whether application of evidence-based practice and 2 different dressing change products help to prevent central venous catheter–related bloodstream infections in patients in a pediatric intensive care unit.